The curate was in the pulpit preaching a sermon. Three of the robbers boldly stalked into church. They (as indeed all the band were) had their faces smeared with god, and a riffa sung over their shoulders, a revolver in their hands, in their belt was a bowie-knife. Elbowing their way to the pulpit they went up the steps, knocked down the curate, bound him with ropes, threw him on their shoulders and went with their burde to the parsonage. As they quitted the church they warned the congregation that whoever budged wou d be snot down. Their companions appeared at the door to show that threat to be no tide measure. No body dared move. How Wood Pulp Is Made.

So much is said about the paper pulp which is extensively used in the manufactory ture of paper that a bief description of the process of making it will be entertaining. Any white soft wood may be used. The bark is taken off, the knots and dark decayed place cut out. It is then put into a large cultion and boiled, which extensively used in the manufactory became their strength and their wages increased in the sum of the only increase and strength and to be brought out of the opera, and then it was seen that the impersal customers and trength in the catherian trength and to be brought out of the opera, and then it was seen that the impersal customers and to be brought out of the opera, and then it was seen that the impersal customers and to be brought out of the opera, and then it was seen that the impersal customers and to be brought out of the opera, and then it was seen that the impersal customers and to be brought out of the opera, the sum

Some of the highest author-ities in the country seem to recognize these facts, for the Englishman is a great favorite and has much influence in governfavorite and has much influence in govern-ment circles. April Fools at Rome. [Philadelphia Bulletin Rome Letter.] The first of April is a great day in Rome. Every one tries to fool every one without being fooled himself. Nor must you think that this fooling is child's play, as it is in other countries. Political men of high standing fool each other with school bay gice, and churchmen, in green, violet, or red, are not exempt from the common madness. Some of the tricks to be played on the first of April are prepared mosths in advance, and many are even ingenious in the way they are car-ried out. Last year a Mandolinata sere sade was promised at the Coloss-um, and cople who forgot the dite went thither in masses. At another time an eclipse was announced, and you saw all Rome staring at the sun with a piece of burnt glass beore the eyes. The Ministry aunounce Cabinet meetings, till then unthought of Even Caireli, himself, has been similarly fooled. Few, indeed whether high or low. can escape being fooled. This year it was announced that Lieut. Bove would give a lecture on the North Pole at the Alhambra, When the people went to the Alhambra, all was darkness and the doors were shut.

The best trick of the day, or rather the one that made the most noise, was a letter that was sent, to the newspaper, the Aurora which is the Pope's own organ. The letter was signed, or supposed to be a young actress. It was in vain that the actress perself denied the rumors that round and, laughing, bade them remember it was the first of April! He honorably returned the presents he had received, but the supper he could not return. The friends have warned him to take care of himself next year.

Attempts to Assassinate Louis Napoleon.

prolific in regicidal outrages, for a traitor called Libenyl tried in February to murder the Emperor Francis Joseph at Vienna, while in March a soldier sought to dispose of the reigning Duke of Parma, Charles Ht. Three years passed now without any more crimes of this sort; but in 1856 Napoleon HL was twice put inperil of his life, both his aggressors (Pian ori and Bellamare) being Italians. It is said that after the attempt of Bellamare the Emperor took to wearing a shirt of mail under his linen. It was not, however until after the fearful enterprise of Orsini, on Jan 14, 1858, that he got to be so seriously unnerved as to live in constant drend of assassination. Count Felice Orsini was not a mere vulgar fanatic, but a gentleman by birth, education, and forwhen a political refugee in Italy, had joined a Free Masonic lodge, and sworn at seeing the temporal p wer of the Pope maintained by a French garrison of 18,-0 0 mm; and two years before attemp ing Napelcon's life he wrote anonymously to warn him that the Carbonaro lodges had decreed his death, and that the sentence would infallibly be carried out if the Imperial policy toward Italy were not altered. Had ount Orsini's accompliceshis mettle and de etmination, the attempt against Napoleon on the night of Jan. 14 185s, must have been crowned with success: but they were poor, ignorant cravens, who did their work for pay not from con-viction, and their hearts falled them at the critical moment Each of then, had been provided with two explosive shells, which were to be thrown under the Emperor's carriage as it drove up to the opera. Order throw his two she is, and Pierri one, but the other two men rate off in a fright when they heard the first ex-plosion. The damage done by the shells was ghastly. Five people were killed outright, and nine wounded; all the soldiers of the mounted escort were bruised or scratched; the Emperor's coachman tell of scratched the Emperor's coachman tell off his box stunned on the car-case of one of his horses, who lay dead; and one of the footnen was blown 20 yards off, with his skull battered in. Meanwhile, hundreds of panes of glass in the street had been smashed, all the gas lamps were extinguished.

Government should be carried on by a strong regency in case of his demise. He never went out without leaving directions as to where the latest copy of his will was to be found; and at times, when he was in to be found; and at times, when he was in low spirits, he used to say that he had dreamed he should be assassinated within such and such a time. During the remainder of his reign all Italians visiting France were required to exhibit passports; and if not persons of undoubted respectability, were closely watched till tan excuse was found for expelling them from the country. In despite of these precautions, Napoleon's life was again attempted, by an Italian, in 1863, while in 1866 three other intriguers of Orsini's interesting country—creco, Trabuco, and Imperatore—entered into a murderous plot against his life, which was happly nipped against his life, which was happily nipped in the bad by the Police. There is said to have been another and more mysterious attempt against the Emperor, of which the public heard nothing, except by rumor. A gamekeeper, of the forest of Complegne, shot at his Majesty while the lat ter was engaged in a pleasant battue; but one of the equerries in attendance on Napoleon discharged both the barrels of his breech loader into the head of the murderer and killed him on the spot. So the story runs; but whether it be a true one or not will probably never be known till some of the secret memoirs of the im-perial era come to light, -- The Cornhill Magazine.

Wonder ul Feats of Memory.

The Paris correspondent of the New Orcans Picayune tells the following story: One day in January, 1810-a long whi e ago, but as the anecdote is unpublished, and the actors were all eminent, it will bear the telling-several professors of the university of Berlin were assembled in the council chamber and were talking. One of them held the Voss Gazette in his hand Turning to Prof. Boeckh (famous as a signed, by the Pope's Secretary. Not the Greek scholar and as possessor of a wounshadow of doubt coul l'enter the ed.tor's derful memory) be asked: "Do you think mind, and the letter was duly published." ahadow of doubt could lenter the editor's mind, and the letter was duly published. Now, the letter amounced that certain persons well known at the Vatican (and known also for incapacity) were to be appointed to some very high posts. Even certain embassadors were announced to be replaced by others, and the consequence was that the persons who are in actual occupation of the piace in question called up a the Pope to ask for an explanation respecting the affair. At first the long only laughed, but after a little he seemed to think that it was no laughing matter, and changing tone, he ordered an inquiry into the aflair, to discover, if possible, who was lik wise famous for his bec, who were the guilty persons. The inquiry into the adlair, to discover, if possible, who were the guilty persons. The Aurora easily exensed itself by producing the letter which misled the editor, and which is duly signed by Monsignor Cret oni. The question now is to find out who initiated that signifiare so well that it might deceive the Pope him-self. This the Pope has ordered to be done, though it is not sikely that the emprit will be discovered, and even if he be he must be pardoned according to all April traditions.

Another case of April feeding is told of a young man, who contrived to make all
